

GOVT TO LAUNCH NATIONAL SKILL MISSION

Government on 28th February 2015 announced launching of a National Skills Mission to consolidate skill initiatives spread across several ministries, a move that was hailed by the industry as a welcome step to address the demographic dividend in the country.

Presenting the Budget, Finance Minister Arun Jaitley said, "We will soon be launching a National Skills Mission through the Skill Development and Entrepreneurship Ministry. The Mission will consolidate skill initiatives across several ministries and allow us to standardize procedures and outcomes across our 31 Sector Skill Council."

This step could further improve India's position as the fourth largest start-up nation in the world. Jaitley said, "India is one of the youngest nations in the world with more than 54 percent of the total population below 25 years of age. Yet today less than 5 percent of our potential workforce gets formal skill training to be employable and stay employable."

Additional focus on Skilling of rural youth is essential but there has to be an allocation/reservation for skilling of women in rural India. We need to make women in rural India partners in the growth of Indian economy." He further added.

Kunwar Vikram Singh, Chairman-SSSDC said that it was a welcome step although there were huge challenges.

Underlining that jobs and hiring in India need to shift from being qualification-based to skill-based, he said that almost every hiring in India uses education and qualification as a surrogate for skill. Hiring should be based on skills.

SKILL DEVELOPMENT FOR SMEs

There is a need to focus on SMEs and provide skill-based training for them. Anil Bhardwaj, Secretary General, FISME, says, "The need of the hour is that we should have an aggregator or coordinator at the national level to impart skill-based training. There is a shortage of skilled manpower in the SME clusters. So, the need is to figure out the shortage and work out strategies to resolve it accordingly."

The MSME Ministry, through its various measures like enhancing the training capabilities of the Tool Rooms, MSME Development Institutes and other organizations/, is providing developing skills for SME employees. "The government needs to make sure that the programmes enacted by them reach to SMEs," says Bhardwaj.

LABOUR MINISTRY TO INTRODUCE “LABOUR CODE ON WAGES” UNDER THE NEW LAW

The Ministry of Labour has decided to introduce “Labour Code on Wages Bill-2015” in the Parliament in order to consolidate and amend the laws related to wages and bonus and the matters connected there with.

Under this new legislation following labour Laws shall be amalgamated:

The Minimum Wages Act- 1948
The payment of Wages Act-1936
The Payment of Bonus Act-1965
The Equal Remuneration Act-1965

The Ministry has sought opinion of CAPSI and other chamber of Commerce and Industry and labour organizations before it is presented in the Parliament.

In the new Bill, it is being proposed that the wages of SEMI SKILLED workers shall be at least 50% higher than the minimum wages of the UN SKILLED workers and the minimum wages of SKILLED workers should be at least 25% higher than the wages of SEMI SKILLED workers.

Following shall be Components of Minimum Wages:

(1) Any minimum rate of wages fixed or revised by the State government in respect of employments under section 8 may consist of –

(i) A basic rate of wages and a special allowance at a rate to be adjusted at such intervals and in such manner as the State government may direct to accord as nearly as practicable with the variation in the cost of living index number applicable to such workers; or

(ii) A basic rate of wages with or without the cost of living allowance and the cash value of the concessions in respect of suppliers of essential commodities at concession rates were so authorized; or

(iii) An all-inclusive rate allowing for the basic rate the cost of living allowance and the cash value of the concessions if any

There are many other important clauses related to bonus and leave entitlements which will have impact on the working Conditions and entitlements of workers.

The Legal & legislative Committee headed by Sh. Jasbir Wasu Vice President, CAPSI is working on the various aspects of this proposed legislation. A mail along with copy of the proposed legislation has been sent to entire membership seeking their views on the Bill.
